

Reimbursement of Digital Health Solutions: France

Reimbursement of Digital Health is advancing in France:

In France, the HAS (High Health Authority) has included among their list of products and health services reimbursable by social security the first medical software device. It is used to detect cancer relapse and complications during the follow-up of lung cancer patients at high risk of relapse. Learn more at the official HAS website.